It was morning and Samantha was up making breakfast. "Morning Sam." Darrin said as he walked downstairs, "I'm running late today" he said kissing her "you always seem to be running late darling, got time for your breakfast?" she asked he nodded "So what are you going to do today darling? I thiâ€¦" she was cut short when Endora silently appeared sitting on top of the table, Darrin turned around not knowing Endora was there, "Just the usual. What were you saâ€¦.Oh hi Endora." He hurriedly fixed his tie "Sam, forget about breakfast, I think I just lost my apetite" Endora looked on with distaste "Hello Derwood, nice to see you too." Darrin was not pleased, "If I don't go now I'm gonna get stuck in traffic. Bye Samâ€¦.Endora" As she heard the door slam shut she turned to Samantha "Why you ever married 'him' I'll never know!" Sam took the defensive "Mother why do you always give Darrin a hard time? I'm sure if you got to know him you see how sweet and caring he actually is." Endora looked as if she would be sick "Seen one mortal you've seen them all, Samantha when will you learn that mother is always right." Sam sighed "Mother, do you want to come upstairs and see Tabitha? Yes, well come on then." She lead the way up the stairs to Tabithas' bedroom, She was sitting there playing with her toys "Grandmama!" she called excitedly "Hello beautiful" replied Endora, "At least she has your looks Samantha." They all went back to the kitchen, "Here you go Tabitha, be a good girl and finish your breakfast." Sam said, "Well Mother will you tell me why you dropped in?" Endora looked hurt. "Do I need a reason to see my daughter?" Samantha stared at her "Alright, you win. I decided that I'd come and take you and Tabitha to Paris for the day!" Sam shook her head "you just don't give up do you mother, you know Darrin doesn't approve of witchcraft, and even if he wouldn't mind I can't. I have to buy Tabitha some new shoes. Do you want to come with us?" she asked innocently. "Oh Samantha! Will you for once stop thinking about that fool! There's a way where we could get Tabitha shoes and go to Paris! Can't say I didn't try, I'll be off then." And with that she dissapeared as quickly as she had came.

"Ok Tabitha, Lets go get you your shoes."
